

ABSTRACT

sub 5
The invention relates to a server for controlling telecommunications and/or computer equipment comprising a digital transmission link to said equipment. According to the invention, the server comprises means for the reception and interpretation of short messages (SMS or UUS messages) including commands and means for the sending of said commands to the telecommunications or computer equipment through the digital transmission link.

10 Figure 2